Long Term Care and Treatment Education Program

Through Linn Benton Lincoln Education Service District, the education program serves school age clients in residence and in day treatment at the Children's Farm Home, a mental health treatment facility operated by Trillium Family Services. Students attend classes Monday through Thursday, from August through June. The average class size is 16 or less pupils. Teachers provide individualized and small group instruction with standard curriculum and a variety of online and computer-based programs. Trillium cottage and day treatment staff also acts as coaches during the school day in each classroom. Classes for Redwood and Sequoia are self-contained with instruction in core content areas and opportunity for credit recovery. Students from Mallett, Powers and Cummings cottages attend classes at the Farm Home School building located in the northwest part of the campus. High School day treatment students attend classes in that building as well. Elementary and middle school day treatment students attend self-contained classrooms at the North Point building.

LTCT Mission Statement

The Long Term Care & Treatment Education Program (LTCT) is committed to providing students a safe, caring environment which fosters an engaging and relevant education through the collaboration of treatment and education.

Attendance

All students of the Children's Farm Home are required to attend school, unless their treatment specifies otherwise. Trillium staff are responsible for the movements of students from their cottages to school. Trillium operates under the sanctuary model and students may choose not to attend school.

Academic Updates

A monthly academic update will be sent out you and your students' therapist. The monthly update details which subjects your student is enrolled in, their progress towards graduation, and notes about their participation in their education.

Assessments

For academics, all students who are able, are assessed in math, reading, and writing using a district-wide assessment tool. Assessments are used to assess present levels and also measure growth. The information gathered with the first assessment helps teachers individualize instruction for each student. Additional assessments are given multiple times throughout the school year.

Teachers meet on a weekly basis to monitor, measure progress, develop interventions, and adjust instruction for each student.

Elementary and Middle School Grading

Elementary and Middle School (Wake Robin School)

Students are assigned to a core set of classes; Humanities, STEM, and PE. Classes are held in a self-contained classroom on the Wake Robin School campus. Students are awarded grades at the end of the school year or when they leave the program.
